

DATAREPORT

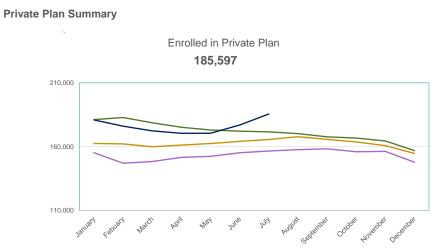

July 31, 2023

- Maryland Health Connection topped 185,000 enrollees in private plans through July 2023. That is an all-time high and surpassedJanuary's open enrollment total of 182,166. The total is also 8 percent more than July 2022. The increase is largely due to people buying their own plans after rolling off Medicaid.
- Enrollees in income-based Medicaid totaled 1,248,813 as of July 30, 2023. The "Unwinding" process following the end of the Public Health Emergency is moving that total closer to what it was one year ago, 1,238,724.
- New enrollees now make up 33 percent of the private plans in Maryland Health Connection. That is up from 30 percent in June and up from 29 percent one year ago.
- Enrollments are also up across various race and ethnicity categories through July year over year:
 Hispanic up 22 percent, Black or African-American up 11 percent, Asian Pacific American and White both up 6 percent.
- Young adult enrollments in private plans through July topped 51,000 4,000 more than one year earlier and 5,000 more than two years ago before the state launched a special subsidy program for qualified applicants between 18 and 34. Its purpose is to encourage more young adults to get health insurance.
- Maryland Health Connection's "Easy Enrollment" program with the Maryland Department of Labor had its largest month ever of people who enrolled in private health plans after they checked a box on unemployment applications: 431.
